WHY IS ICCFA OFFERING CELEBRANT TRAINING?

ICCFA's mission is to help its members continue to be viable and thrive in today's marketplace as well as tomorrow's. Fewer people are choosing to be attached to organized religions, or wish to have clergy-led funeral services. This offers an alternative option to offer your customers. It's been found that Celebrant-led services lead to increased customer satisfaction, with families finding them considerably more personal than other funerals they have attended.

WHY SHOULD A PERSON BECOME A CERTIFIED CELEBRANT?

Individuals from all walks of life have come to learn how to provide meaningful, personalized funerals specifically for families regardless of their religious affiliation or no affiliation.

Glenda Stansbury of The In-Sight Institute travels the United States and Canada providing this unique and specialized training, which is changing the face of funeral service. It is an intense, participant-oriented training where you will have a chance to practice, discover resources and build your skills in working with families and making public presentations.

A variety of people become Celebrants: funeral directors, chaplains, clergy, hospice professionals, nuns, priests, teachers, writers, actors, business people—anyone who has an interest in serving people in this capacity who also has abilities in the areas of writing and public speaking.

WHAT WILL A CERTIFIED CELEBRANT OFFER TO A FUNERAL HOME?

Celebrants offer an alternative to services provided by clergy persons for those families who are not affiliated with a church or who do not wish to have a traditional religious funeral service. They are trained to design services that are completely personal, incorporating those unique stories, songs and experiences that defined the deceased. Celebrants schedule a special "Family Time" meeting when the family can share memories, anecdotes and defining moments in the loved one's life. They will then base the essence of the service on the remembrances of the family, and family and friends will be encouraged to participate. Celebrants develop a library of resources available for readings, music, ceremonies and personal touches. They consult with the family to help them choose elements of the service that reflect their loved one. They are bound by a Code of Ethics for complete confidentiality in all dealings with the family. Some firms choose to send one or more people from their staff to become a Celebrant, so that they will always have someone available to serve their families.

WHY IS ICCFA PARTNERING WITH THE IN-SIGHT INSTITUTE FOR CELEBRANT TRAINING?

Glenda Stansbury and the In-Sight Institute pioneered the very definition of what a celebrant is and could be. We wanted to align ourselves with the best, and we have.

The training for celebrants as established by the In-Sight Institute seeks to provide the most comprehensive and sensitive training available for people who wish to develop this as a profession or to add to their current job description. It is important that a family knows they are being served by someone who understands the process and is prepared to offer the very best funeral possible.
